Over the past ten years many voluntary groups have helped to instigate the management plan for Eynsham Abbey fishponds. The Parish Council and various grant givers have invested in the work and it now seems an appropriate time to find what biodiversity changes have taken place and to plan for the next ten years. We have applied for grants to fund the surveys many of the same experts are keen to return. They will be carrying out their work over the summer and their final reports will be available on the village website: Eynsham Online.

We also hope to increase local awareness of the area, its biodiversity and history by celebrating the past ten years with this invitation to everyone to come and join in. We plan to follow up with a YouTube short film and links to the reports and plans for those interested in more detail.
